Bridge disasters and incidents

On April 30, during the 1951 New Zealand waterfront dispute a rail bridge three miles from Huntly, on the Glen Afton branch line, was dyanimted. Although the morning passenger train ran over the damaged bridge, it did not collapse. After regular railway line patrols were commenced, trains ran normally again the next day. The Tangiwai disaster on 24 December 1953, was the worst rail accident in New Zealand. The rail brid
