

Fiber optic cables in the forest

Overview

Fibre optic cables from drones cover large areas of wooded and edge habitats, forming dangerous webs across trees and clearings that will pose a significant risk of entanglement and death to many species, including threatened birds and bats, for years to come. "A Ukrainian front-line city has been smothered by a giant web of fibre optic cable from hundreds of drone battles in the skies. Video footage of Lyman, Donetsk, shows entire rows of houses and a field draped in sheets of translucent wire left behind by the aircraft. Footage from the Ukrainian 63rd Mechanized Brigade shows a ridiculous amount of fiber optic cable, glistening in the sun, as it covers the entire visible landscape, making it appear as if the Seredbrianske Forest is haunted by a giant spider. And what this landscape will look like after the war," the video is captioned. more △This Channel Is Made Strictly For Educational And News Gathering Purposes. The video, which was shared by Ukraine's defense ministry, shows the 63rd Mechanized Brigade in action in the.
