

How are year-end bonuses calculated in electrical distribution box factories

Overview

Bonus = (Net Profit × Bonus Percentage) ÷ Total Employees Example: If your business made $1 million in profit and you allocate 10% for bonuses with 50 employees, each employee receives $2,000. A yearly bonus is a sum of money paid to employees in addition to their standard salary. This article explores three common approaches to calculating bonuses—equal distribution, years of service, and performance or position-based—while highlighting the benefits of rewarding your team. Also, the amount varies based on whether specific objectives have been accomplished.
